Mahagenco generates more power

Despite limited coal stocks

Mumbai :

Maharashtra State Power Generation Company Limited, popularly known as Mahagenco, has generated 3395 Million Units (MUs) more power during the April-October 2014 period over the corresponding period last year.

The largest power producer PSU among all the states in India, Mahagenco has achieved this additional generation, although the stocks at its disposal are sufficient just for a day or two.

Mahagenco had generated 19513 MUs of power between 1 April and 31 October 2013. In spite of adverse conditions, Mahagenco improved its performance significantly for the period 1 April 2014 till 31 October 2014 by generating 22908 MUs of power.

Mahagenco has been making all-out efforts to generate a maximum amount of power with the resources available.
